

Hayden has grown accustomed to the twin guardians being around, but when they are called away, she quickly realizes how much she has been dependent upon them. Alone and scared, she needs to learn how to do things on her own and make her own decisions. However, she is never alone. Someone is always watching over her, guiding her. Still, she clings to her defensive ways, afraid to fully commit to her destiny. God puts her through a few tests to break those bonds and show off her inner strengths. Will she be prudent and make the right choices, or will she fall back on her insecurities and fears? Even after the twins return.
