

Building Reading Skills

This book is an English for Special Purposes (ESP) course designed especially for adults and young adults with upper-elementary to lower-intermediate level English who study civil engineering, architecture and interior design. The emphasis is on improving their reading comprehension and practicing vocabulary related to content. Learning can be enhanced through the reading of texts, doing tasks and understanding reading strategies. Factors, such as arrangement of ideas in authentic documents, vocabulary, syntax, clarifying the authors intentions and familiarity with the subject matter help to stimulate the readers interest. We are using strategies to help students gain insight into the structure of the text and to learn how to read and comprehend the texts, diagrams and tables. Our book makes extensive use of content and task-based activities. It reviews the core language that students need in order to be successful in their respective fields. Our series of books has been used by individuals, small study groups, technical college classes, language courses and as a reference guide for libraries
