

Sister Forever

Sister Forever, was written by Jennifer Hoover after the loss of her son Michael Hoover. After watching her daughter struggle with missing her little brother and the dreams of being a big sister, Jennifer felt it was important to address this loss and fear to other families. In this book, a little girl talks about her grief and fear after her brother dies. When her mother gets pregnant again, the little girl talks about how hard it is for her to be apart from her mom when her mom goes out of town constantly for medical appointments. She also fears that the new baby will also die before even getting to meet him/her. Will her fears be met, or will she get to live out her dreams? See how she finds security when her life seems out of control after the brother she was dreaming of dies before she gets to meet him and then her mom becomes pregnant again only to be gone all the time for out of town doctor appointments.
