

Water Resources and the Urban Environment-98: Proceedings of the 1998 National Conference on Environmental Engineering June 7-10, 1998 Chicago, Illinois

This proceedings, Water Resources and the Urban Environment-98, contains papers presented at the 1998 National Conference on Environmental Engineering of the ASCEs Environmental Engineering Division held in Chicago, Illinois, June 7-10, 1998. This was part of a joint conference held with the ASCE Water Resource Planning and Management Division. The focus of the conference was on the planning, development, and operation of engineered projects involving use of water resources in the urban setting. Papers presented covered a wide range of topics including: drinking water and wastewater treatment and conveyance; water reuse; biosolids; GIS information systems; site remediation; groundwater remediation; air pollution; small urban watersheds; decentralized alternative wastewater management systems; and general environmental issues.
